

Lisa Ferrie
Planner

“

Construction is a challenging industry, but also a very rewarding one when you get to see something on paper come to life in front of you.

There's numerous options and pathways out there to get into construction and once you do start in it there's always new things to learn, new ways of building and different areas for you to work in and experience.

”